THE LEGEND OF NEW RIVER.

How Water Came in the Desert After a Child's Prayer.

In the early fifties a party of emigrants on their way to the gold fields of California by the southern route, via the Gila river, crossed the Colorado by the ferry left by Graham in 1848 "and struck out on the desert for the land of promise." The trail was well defined by abandoned wagons and the bones of horses, mules and human beings. Struggling through the yielding sand, the thermometer at 120 degs.," wheels falling apart, animals dying from heat and thirst, they on the second night out halted some ten miles from "Cooke's Well," with the water in their kegs exhausted.

Tradition states that a little ten-year-old girl was heard praying, in one of the wagons, for water. It states that in her childlike faith she said: "Oh, good, Heavenly Father, I know that I have been a very naughty, naughty girl, but, oh! dear, I am so very thirsty, and mamma, papa and the baby all want to drink so much. Do, good God, give us water, and I will never, never be naughty again."

The gaunt, half starved, desperate men gathered around the wagons, discussing how and what movement to make to save their lives and their dear ones, with no thought of gold now, and listened to the humble petition. One voiced the rest and said, "May God grant it!" Soon the voice of the little child, in cheerful accent, sounded clear in the silent night. "Oh, mother, mother, get me water; oh, I can hear it running; oh, do get some for baby and me."

They thought her delirious from her sufferings, when suddenly a babel of sounds broke forth from the oxen and mules, all frantic and endeavoring to break loose from the wagon poles.

A rustling noise called their attention to a slight depression near the wagons, and on investigating the cause they found water gushing up out of the sand, sweet, clear, but warm. Their sufferings were over, and they reached the mines better and wiser for this interposition, as they firmly believed, of Divine Providence.

This spring continued to flow, running due north for twenty miles, then was lost in the sand. In places it was over two miles wide and from four to twenty feet deep. When immigration in 1851 moved by the isthmus and the northern route, the miraculous water disappeared, as its mission was accomplished and its divine work done. But the memory of the "new river" that was caused by a sandbar below Yuma, will long be remembered by survivors of the thousands benefited by it in 1850-51.—A Pioneer of 1849 in Hartford Courant.

To Regulate Dreams.

Most desirable of all things would it be to be able to control one's dreams and fashion the sleep fancies into shapes pleasing and arabesque, so that Morpheus might lift the curtain every night upon a delightful and entertaining stage play, with no horrors in it to rake up the feelings unpleasantly. For the purpose of accomplishing something of this sort a Washington man has invented an ingenious centrivance in the shape of a sort of adjustable skeleton nightcap, with small cushioned screws that can be turned down so as to press upon certain parts of the head.

Teachers of phrenological science, as everybody knows, have divided up the pericranium into areas, each of which represents certain definite ideas and emotions. Thus, there is no difficulty in applying the screws to whatever centers of thoughts or feelings it may be desired to excite. When a person is trying to think very hard, he instinctively presses his forehead over the organs of reflection, and it is the same principle that is utilized by this instrument.

The pressure is excitive, and the subject has simply to adjust the screws suitably in order to call the attention of the mind, as one might say, in corresponding direction. Before going to sleep he regulates the machine and directs his dreams accordingly.—Washington Star.

Microscopical examinations show that when light is transmitted through the shaft the hair appears dark; but as the natural consistency and color of hair aside from the pigment is that of horn or the finger nails, a slight change in the structure of the tube, causing the light to be reflected, would have the effect of turning the hair white.—Hyland C. Kirk in New York Times.

Senator Manderson's $20,000 Hat.

Mr. Manderson, of Nebraska, an American senator, owns a hat, received as a present, the nominal cost of which is £4,000. The hat is a white one, weighing twenty ounces, and is made of canceled greenbacks worth that sum in the aggregate, and looks almost exactly like the white hats worn by many gentlemen in summer time.—London Tit-Bits.

A Retraction.

"You called me a puppy, sir, and I demand an apology."

"Why of course. I apologize. If I had thought an instant I should have seen that you are too old to be a puppy."—New York Truth.

Twynn—I am everlastingly dipping my pen in the mucilage bottle.

Triplett—I never do.

"How do you prevent it?"

"I use a typewriter."—New York Epoch.

AN AWKWARD SITUATION.

The Trouble Caused by Selecting Two Men to Succeed One Janitor.

The janitor of a flat is constantly looked down upon, which is not so extraordinary, living as he usually does in the basement of the house. The tenants are apt to regard him as an autocrat, continually complaining of everything he does and showering praise in his presence on all other janitors in the street.

Who ever praises the janitor of his flat, anyway? Like children of other parents, the janitors of other houses are more polished, more polite and neater than our own. No wonder that the owners of flats hold a good janitor in such high esteem.

It was a janitor whose hide was invulnerable that presided over an up town flat of which a friend of mine is the owner. My friend used to tell me that this man was an ideal janitor—one who did everything that tenants did not like, and raised Cain when they complained. But it went so far that all the tenants were on the point of leaving the premises if their monarch was not dethroned. My friend was compelled to act favorably on their demands. Accordingly, the monarch abdicated by the consent of the owner, and another was advertised for to occupy the vacant throne.

Many applicants responded—a conglomeration of all ages and nationalities—and one was selected. Days passed, but he never came. An advertisement was again resorted to, and still a larger number of ambitious men applied. A suitable one was again selected and my friend breathed easier. But, like his predecessor, he never came. My friend became desperate, so did the occupants of the flat. They hated janitors, but now they were howling for one. As a last resort my friend advertised a third time, and to make sure of not being fooled again he accepted two men for the position. Here was certainly some possibility of one making his appearance.

Early the next morning a truck loaded with furniture stopped before the flat. My friend smiled with triumph and satisfaction. A janitor was here at last. He thought of the other applicant that had been accepted, and immediately dispatched a messenger to his address to inform him that his services were not required. But, alas! for cruel fate. The messenger's unusual celerity had hardly brought him around the corner when another truck hove in sight and anchored directly beside the other truck before the door. The two applicants had come, and each was ready to take charge.

The situation was indeed a trying one. My friend surveyed the prospective battlefield for a moment and, summoning all his courage, he advanced to meet the new arrival, a burly gentleman, with not a very friendly countenance.

There was war in the air for the next ten minutes and there was danger of my friend being demolished, but to his great relief a settlement was agreed upon. He paid all expenses that the man demanded, and thanked heaven to see him depart satisfied.

My friend assures me that there will soon be another owner to select janitors for that flat.—New York Herald.

No Objection.

Mr. Luke Harron, an easygoing old farmer, was especially proud of two things, his sheep and his poultry, and all visitors to the farm were taken out to see them.

Thus it chanced that Constable Short, who had come over from the village to serve on Farmer Harron a summons to act as juryman, was on his hands and knees peering into the depths of a coop, examining a new variety of chicks. Suddenly, and without the slightest warning, something swift and terrible smote him in the unprotected rear with such force that he was driven head first into the coop, to the consternation of its feathered inmates.

With some assistance from Farmer Harron—who, it must be admitted, chuckled audibly at the sight—the constable was at length cleared from the wreck, his hat was pulled from over his eyes, and then he saw his assailant, a sturdy young ram, standing with lowered head, as if meditating another attack.

"Wal," replied Farmer Harron philosophically, "I dunno; ye might try agin 'n' see how 'twould turn out. I'm sure I hain't any objection."—Youth's Companion.

One of Thousands.

Theorizer—I can't understand it, I really can't. Here you left a comfortable home in Europe and came to this country because you wanted to be your own landlord; yet you settle right down here in a big city and pay more rent for a dingy, slum cellar than you paid in Europe for your whole farm. Why don't you go west, where you can get land for nothing, or else go back to your pastoral home in Europe?

She Didn't Keep Her Old Clothes.

It was a western girl who, in visiting an eastern acquaintance who was very proud of her descent, and who showed her first one and then another precious possession which was "ancestral," exclaimed pensively:

"Dear me! I haven't so much as an old white hat to prove that I ever had a grandfather!"—Youth's Companion.

ONLY A DOLLAR.

Small Gifts, to Be Sure, but Their Influence Was Lasting.

"I can't do much," said a dear old Vermont gentleman, when the boys in blue were marching off to the war, "and I can't go myself, but I can at least give them each a keepsake."

He brought out a little store of bright gold dollars, and gave one to each lad of the town who was pledged to fight, and perhaps die, for the Union. Some of the men who received the gift were infinitely touched by it, because they had always been among those for whom "nobody cared," and for every one to whom it was given the bright dollar evidently brought a ray of sunshine.

Some of the stories connected with the coins will never be known, but a few came back through one mouth and another, causing the giver's heart to rejoice that he had done so kindly a deed.

"I punched a hole through mine and wore it on a string around my neck," said one rough fellow, of whom no one had ever expected to hear good. "Nobody ever give me anything before, since marm died, and I was as fond of that dollar as if I'd been a girl and got my engagement ring.

"Once when we were in camp the string broke and I lost it. My! didn't I tear around like a wildcat till I found it again! I don't believe I've swore so much since I had it. I've kept sayin' to myself: 'Now, don't you be a disgrace to your town. You don't want to be ashamed to look that old man in the face again.'"

One man, who came crawling home a starved and pitiable wreck after sad experiences of imprisonment and escapes, could scarcely speak of his dollar without tears.

"I had to give it up," he said mournfully as soon as he saw the donor on reaching home. "I saved it as many as ninety-nine times, and the hundredth it saved me. It bought me the bread and milk that gave me strength to crawl my last mile into our lines."

"Never you mind, old fellow!" cried a hearty looking one armed man who heard the story; "mine is gone too, but I don't want to get it back. When I came home from the war there was my Mary Ann, who'd been waiting for me three years, knitting stockings and scraping lint.

"Steady as a clock she'd been, and patienter than I'd thought of being; she'd never once yipped, that she was tired of waiting. So, thinks I, 'My dollar and my girl are the most precious things I've got, and I'll combine 'em.' I went to my brother (he's a jeweler, you know) and told him to make me a wedding ring out of the dollar. He said 'twould be pretty small, and I told him he might put more gold with it to give it body, but the dollar must be there. And Mary Ann wears it now, bless her heart, and bless the dollar and the man that give it!"—Youth's Companion.

Too Important.

A reasonable degree of self confidence is almost essential to one's comfort and efficiency, but if a man has a very exalted opinion of his own abilities he will do well to keep it to himself.

A certain dry goods clerk was in the habit of saying to his associates that the concern would find it pretty hard to get along without him. These remarks came to the ears of the senior partner, and he called the clerk into the inner office.

"Mr. Jenkins," he began, "you have been very efficient and we highly appreciate your services, but we have heard it said that if you were to die the business could not possibly survive the loss. This has worried us a good deal, for you, like all the rest of us, are liable to drop off suddenly."

"We have concluded, therefore, for our peace of mind, to experiment while we are both in good health, and see if the concern can bear up under your loss. You will accordingly consider yourself dead for one year, and we will try to get on without you for that length of time."—Exchange.

What the Rats Cost.

A pair of rats, happily situated and undisturbed, will in three years have increased to 656,808. Calculating that ten rats eat as much in one day as a man, which we think is rather under than over the fact, the consumption of these rats would be equal to that of 65,680 men the year round and leave eight rats in the year to spare. Multiplying in this rapid way it is providential that the rat has so many natural enemies.

All these to the contrary notwithstanding, he often proves sufficiently troublesome to make the community conspire against him. In Ireland they singe the hair of a rat which has been caught, but otherwise it is unharmed. In Germany they let one loose with a small bell attached to his neck. The tinkling of this, as the belled rat chases his friends, produces a panic among them and causes them to flee the premises.—Boston Courier.

A Rural Ignoramus.

Favorite waiter—I don't know, miss; some country gawk, I s'pose. He don't know nothin' 'bout fash'n'ble life.

"Indeed! Why do you think so?"

"He's sittin' there starvin' instead of feein' a waiter an' gettin' somethin' to eat."—New York Weekly.

They Often Do.

"Remember, my child, kind words can never die."

"Maybe so," said the suffering woman; "but they can go off and stay for years and hang ye up for lost."—Harper's Bazar.

SONOMA, OCTOBER 17, 1891.

A Recipe for Cooking Husbands.

In selecting a husband you should not be guided by the silvery appearance, as in buying mackerel; nor by the golden tint, as if you wanted salmon. Be sure to select him yourself as tastes differ. Do not go to market for him, as the best are always brought to your door.

It is far better to have none, unless you will patiently learn how to cook him. A preserving kettle of the very finest porcelain is best; but if you have nothing but an earthenware pipkin, it will do, with care.

See that the linen in which you wrap him is nicely washed and mended, with the required number of buttons and strings nicely sewed on. Tie him in the kettle by a strong, silk cord called "comfort," as the one called "duty" is apt to be weak. They sometimes fly out of the kettle and get burned and crusted on the edges, since, like crabs and lobsters, you have to cook them while alive.

Make a clear, steady fire out of love, neatness and cheerfulness. Set him as near this as seems to agree with him. If he sputters and blubbers, do not be anxious; some husbands do this until they are quite done. Add a little sugar in the form of what confectioners call kisses, but no vinegar or pepper on any account. A little spice improves them, but it must be used with judgment. Do not stick any sharp instrument into him to see if he is becoming tender. Stir him gently; watch the while, lest he lie too flat and close to the kettle, and so become useless. You cannot fail to know when he is done.

If thus treated, you will find him very digestible, agreeing very nice with you and the children, and he will keep as long as you want, unless you become careless and set him in too cold a place.

A Wonder Worker.

Mr. Frank Hudman, a young man of Burlington, Ohio, states that he had been under the care of two prominent physicians, and used their treatment until he was not able to get around. They pronounced his case to be consumption and incurable. He was persuaded to try Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, Coughs and Colds and at the time was not able to walk across the street without resting. He found, before he had used half of a dollar bottle, that he was much better; he continued to use it and is to-day enjoying good health. If you have any Throat Lung or Chest Trouble try it. We guarantee satisfaction. Trial bottle free at Ed. Wegner's Drug store.

RUTLEDGE VS. CRAWFORD.

The Supreme Court Decides in Favor of the Contestant.

The election contest for the office of Superior Judge of this county between Rutledge and Crawford, which has been before the courts for nearly a year, was decided by the State Supreme Court in favor of Judge Rutledge, Democrat, and Judge Crawford will no doubt have to turn the office over to his opponent, after having been in possession of the same since last January, at which time he was seated by a decision given by Judge Dougherty, which decision has been overruled by six of the Justices of the Supreme Court, sitting in banc, the seventh, Judge McFarland, being absent. Among other things the Supreme Judges say:

"The Court erred in counting ballot marked Exhibit 37 as a vote for the respondent, the ticket, so far as necessary to be set out, is as follows:

"19. JUDGE OF THE SUPERIOR COURT, J. W. OATES.

"20. STATE SENATOR, TENTH DISTRICT, ROBERT HOWE."

with the name Robert Howe erased, and that of the respondent written opposite, or in line with it.

We do not see how this ticket can be read as a vote for respondant for the office of the Judge of the Superior Court. A ballot is to be construed as any other writing, and while a resort to parol evidence of extrinsic circumstances may be had for the purpose of interrupting what would otherwise be doubtful, it cannot be shown that the intention of the voter was anything different from what the plainly appears upon the face of the ballot. People vs. Seaman, 5 Denio, 409. And when the ballot intelligently shows that a particular person is voted for to fill a particular office, it cannot be counted differently because the Court may believe that the voter made a mistake in preparing his ticket. Voting for a person to fill an office of which he is not a candidate may be the result of mistake, or it may be merely the frivolous exercise of the right of suffrage, but no matter whether such action be attributed to folly or mistake the ballot is the only expression of the voter's will, and it must be counted according to its legal effect. The intention of the voter as it appears upon the face of this ballot was to vote for respondent for State Senator, and not for Judge of the Superior Court, and it should be so counted.

The Court erred in counting ballot No. 3 as a vote for the respondent. Upon this ticket the printed name of respondent was erased with red ink, and that of J. W. Oates written in place of it, also in red ink. The respondent contends that red ink is not common ink within the meaning of the statute. We cannot say that it is not, and its use is not within the mischief, which it is the object of the law to prevent.

Upon several ballots the name of appellant was erased and no name substituted therefor, and the words "no vote" were not written after the name erased. These were counted as votes for appellant. The Court was correct in this ruling. The statute, in order to guard against fraudulent erasures, has provided this as the only way in which the voter can manifest his intention to erase a man, when he does not substitute another, and under such circumstances the erasure is not complete unless followed by these words. There is no valid constitutional objections to this requirement. It does not prescribe any educational qualification for the voter, nor require him to disclose the secrecy of his ballot, as contended.

As the case must be remanded for a new trial the court below should upon application permitt the appellant to amend his statement so as to allege the necessary facts showing his eligibility to be chosen to the office, the election to which is in controversy here. Perri v. Beaumont, supra.

Serious Danger

Threatens every man, woman or child living in a region of country where fever and ague is prevalent, since the germs of malarial disease are inhaled from the air and are swallowed from the water of such a region. Medical safeguard is absolutely necessary to nullify this danger. As a means of fortifying and acclimating the system so as to be able to assist the malarial poison, Hostetter's Stomach Bitters is incomparably the best and the most popular. Irregularities of the stomach, liver and bowels encourage malaria; but these are speedily rectified by the bitters. The functions of digestion and secretion are assisted by its use, and a vigorous as well as regular condition of the system promoted by it. Constitution and physique are thus defended against the inroads of malaria by this matchless preventive, which is also a certain and thorough remedy in the worst cases of intermittent and remittent fevers.

That Tired Feeling

Is a dangerous condition due directly to depleted or impure blood. It should not be allowed to continue, as in its debility the system is especially liable to serious attacks of illness. It is remarkable how beneficial Hood's Sarsaparilla is in this enervating state.

Hood's Sarsaparilla Possessing just those elements which the system needs and readily seizes, this medicine purifies the blood, and imparts a feeling of serene strength which is comforting and satisfying. Hood's Sarsaparilla is the best remedy for that weakness which prevails at change of season, climate or life.

"I have been convinced that Hood's Sarsaparilla is one of the greatest medicines in the world. I say this for the benefit of all other tired out, run down, hard-working women. Hood's Sarsaparilla is not only excellent as a blood purifier, but for all other female complaints, even if of long standing." MRS. M. A. SCARLETT, Northville P. O., Mich.

Ordinance No. 42.

An Ordinance for the Protection of Property in the City of Sonoma and of the Fire Apparatus Owned by said City.

Section 1. It shall be unlawful for any person to ring the fire bell in said city for a fire alarm, except when a building situate within said city is on fire, or, when by the burning of dry grass any such building is in danger of being burned.

Sec. 2. It shall be unlawful for any person or persons to take the fire apparatus of Sonoma City and move the same beyond the limits of said city for any purpose whatever, without the permission of the President of the Board of Trustees of said City, or in his absence, without the permission of two members of said Board.

Sec. 3. Any person violating any of the provisions of this Ordinance shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and on conviction thereof shall be punished by a fine of Twenty Dollars, or by imprisonment in the City Jail, or in the County Jail of Sonoma County, for ten days.

In Board of Trustees finally passed the 7th day of October, 1891.

Is not a cosmetic in the sense in which that term is popularly used, but permanently beautifies. It creates a soft, smooth, clear, velvety skin, and by daily use gradually makes the complexion several shades whiter. It is a constant protection from the effects of sun and wind, and prevents sun burns and freckles, and blackheads will not come while you use it. It changes the face far better than soap and water, nourishes and builds up the skin tissues and thus prevents the formation of wrinkles. It gives the freshness, clearness and smoothness of the skin that you had when a little girl. Every lady, young or old ought to use it, as it gives a more youthful appearance to any lady, and that permanently. It contains no acid, powder or alkali, and is as harmless as dew and as nourishing to the skin as dew is to the flower. Price $1.00, at all druggists and hair-dressers, or at Mrs. Gervaise Graham's establishment, 103 Post Street San Francisco, where she treates ladies for all blemishes of the face and figure. Ladies at a distance treated by letter. Send stamp for her little book "How to be Beautiful."

Two additional shocks of earthquake were felt on Tuesday morning at 4:30 o'clock and 7o'clock, and on Wednesday morning there were several other quakes. It would appear that our people are getting a surfeit of earthquake shocks, having experienced altogether no less than twenty since last Sunday.

D. D. Davisson of this place, who had a narrow escape from losing his left arm while at work in his wine cellar on Tuesday of last week, is still incapacitated from work and it will be a month or two before he will have the use of the injured member. The accident was caused by a large wine cask falling upon and crushing the left arm from the wrist almost to the shoulder. The entire arm was reudered black and blue, the elbow joint injured and the ball of the thumb split open.

The social invitation hop given last Friday evening at Union Hall was in every way a success. By 9:30 o'clock the large hall, which had been decorated and well lighted, was filled with ladies and gentlemen from all parts of the valley, including the pretty town of Glen Ellen. The local music furnished by Messrs. Lee and Johnson and Mrs. Pauli was excellent. Dancing continued until nearly midnight, when the doors of the large dining room were thrown open and supper announced, which was partaken of by all. It consisted of turkey, ham, cold meats, salads, bread and butter, fruit, ice cream, and cakes, tea and coffee, all of which were greatly relished, and shows Mr. Zeller, the proprietor of the Union Hotel, to be the right man in the right place. After supper dancing was resumed and kept up until 3 o'clock Saturday morning. The floor was well managed by Messrs F. Luttrell and John Kearney. The following gentlemen acted as reception committee: G. S. Harris, H. Hartin and H. H. Grance.

THAT EARTHQUAKE.

It Was a Perfect Demon—Minor Temblors.

Damage to Plastering and Chimneys in Town and Valley.

Sonoma and vicinity got a shaking up from a series of earthquakes last Sunday night and Monday morning that her people will not soon forget. The first shock was felt at 9:15 o'clock Sunday evening. The vibrations were from north and south. This temblor was very slight. Later on, however, came the terror of the night, which sent men, women and children rushing out of houses into the street and nearly frightened the lives out of everybody for a few seconds. It was just twenty-eight minutes past ten o'clock, when, without the least warning, one of the most severe shocks ever experienced in this section almost shook the houses from their foundations. It was a perfect demon. Some unseen force seemed to have seized the houses and raising them several feet suddenly let them down and began twisting them from their foundations. Then it was all over. This shock only lasted about eight or ten seconds. Had it kept up many seconds longer few buildings could have withstood the assault. Immediately following this shock, which sent brick chimneys toppling over in various parts of the town and valley, threw buildings out of plumb, broke windows and damaged every plastered house in town, came two slight vibrations. Following these at intervals of every hour or so were a series of quite heavy shocks which had a tendency to make people nervous and destroy sleep for the rest of the night.

The interior of the Pickett residence in the eastern suburbs of town presented a woeful appearance after having passed through the assault of the earthquake. The plastering in all the rooms was shaken down and lay strewn over the carpets and furniture. The building was left out of plumb and in a shaky condition. The concrete wine cellar adjoining is seamed and cracked from foundation to ceiling. In some places the seams are ten inches in width.

Another building that suffered considerably was Pinelli's two-story stone on the east side of the Plaza. The upper story of this edifice was almost denuded of plastering and the walls of the building were sprung almost an inch.

A brick chimney on top of the Ticino Hotel collapsed and falling on the roof sent the lodgers in the house howling into the street.

On the Ringstrom farm, several miles south of town, a large brick chimney fell and crashed through the roof but fortunately no one was injured.

Reports from all over the valley bring news of destruction to chimneys and plastering.

SERIOUS ACCIDENT.

Shubrick Norris of this place, who has been visiting in Oakland the past few months, met with a serious accident at Oakland last Saturday evening. He was riding on one of the Southern Pacific trains going into Oakland from the mole, and while attempting to pass from one car to another, the train gave a sudden lurch and he was dashed headlong to the ground. The train was going at full speed and he struck the ground with great force. It was a miracle that he escaped being instantly killed. As it was he suffered a broken arm and received a contused wound on the head that rendered him unconscious for half an hour. He was taken to the residence of his nephew in East Oakland, where he now lies a very sick man.

FOUTTS CONVICTED.

The Sonoma Fire Bug Found Guilty of Arson in the Second Degree.

Geo. Foutts, on trial before the Superior Court in Santa Rosa on Tuesday and Wednesday, charged with arson, was found guilty of that crime in the second degree and will be sentenced to the penitentiary next week. The verdict meets with general approval in Sonoma. The jury were out only eleven minutes. Foutts with others set fire to the railroad repairing shop in this place over a year ago. Being suspected as one of the parties he was arrested and made a clean breast of the whole affair. The conviction of Foutts is looked upon as a victory for law and order in Sonoma as against a lawless set of young hoodlums who have been running the town to suit themselves for a number of years.

IN SELF-DEFENSE.

G. P. Sears Shoots and Kills John Riebli.

Driven to the Wall He Fires Four Shots into the Body of His Assailant.

Perry Sears, a law-abiding, quiet and old citizen of Sonoma Valley, shot and killed John Riebli, between 12 and 1 o'clock Thursday afternoon. Riebli and his wife made an unwarranted attack upon Mr. and Mrs. Sears with heavy clubs, and in order to save the life of himself and wife, Mr. Sears was compelled to shoot his assailant, who with four balls in his body dropped and died instantly.

Mr. Sears immediately after the shooting, which occurred on his ranch a couple of miles from town, hunted up officer Sparks and surrendered himself.

Yesterday Coroner Blaney impannelled a jury composed of Sonoma Valley's most respected citizens, who after hearing the evidence, immediately acquitted Mr. Sears. The jury was composed of Hon. Robt. Howe, B. F. Campbell, Beaurie Spencer, W. L. Copeland, D. Calloway, Chas. McHarvey, Capt. Cutter, J. B. Smali, T. M. Dunn.

Attorney J. P. Rodgers of Petaluma appeared for Mr. Sears while the affable R. M. Swain of Santa Rosa looked after the interest of the people.

Sears did not testify in his own behalf. Among his witnesses were Mrs. Sears, Rennie McDonell, and a Chinese employed on the ranch and others. The prosecution relied solely upon the dead man's wife for a conviction, but even her testimony favored the defense.

Dr. W. K. Vance of this place, a doctor in medicine and master in surgery and registered as such by the California State Board, as he so testified before the jury, held an autopsy on the body of deceased at the request of Coroner Blaney. He stated among other things that there were four bullet wounds—two in the chest, one in the left arm-pit and one on left thigh near hip joint.

The verdict of the Coroner's jury acquitting Mr. Sears meets with the approval of every good citizen in Sonoma Valley.

Jottings from Our Regular Corespondent

Mr. and Mrs. John Leechman of Berkeley have been visiting Mr. and Mrs. Heggie.

Mr. and Miss Heggie are entertaining their cousin Mr. Tom Hendry of San Francisco.

The residents of this place and vicinity, having had their faith in terra firma severely shaken, should observe the construction of air ships so that another earthquake may find them prepared. We also recommend to their perusal E. P. Hoe's "The Earth Trembled."

Miss Sadie Cady greatly enjoyed the ovation tendered her a short time ago on her return from school for a brief vacation. She came from Santa Rosa, accompanied by Mr. Cady and Leo Gautier, and was met at the station by the Agua Caliente Springs Hotel stage, which was decorated with evergreens. In the afternoon all the school children met at the school house, and marched in a body to the hotel and gave Miss Sadie a surprise party. They spent a pleasant afternoon.

EARTHQUAKE PHENOMENA.

Results of Sunday Night's Temblor in Sonoma Valley.

Hades and the Very Devil Himself Evidently Located Right Beneath Us.

The results of last Sunday night's terrible earthquakes in this valley are the principal themes of conversation on our streets.

On the Polpula rancho, occupied by J. E. Poppe, the ground was cracked and seamed in various places. From these narrow openings in the earth large quantities of water of various temperatures have been gushing forth ever since. In some places the water is ice cold while in others it is warm, reaching a temperature of 100 degrees. The Polpula rancho has always been noted for its many springs, but the recent earthquake has opened up many new ones, some hot and some cold, and caused the old ones to gush forth ten times the amount of their previous flow.

In town the flow of the Gen. Vallejo artesian well has been increased about 100,000 gallons per 24 hours.

On Rhine Farm, the home of Jacob Gundlach, the well-known wine merchant, is an artesian well which has always given but a meager supply of water. It was Mr. Gundlach's intention to resume boring operations on this next week, but Sunday night's shake has caused the well to send forth a large supply of artesian water, and the idea of having it sunk deeper has been abandoned.

On Capt. Boyes' farm, a short distance from town, the flow of gas from his natural gas well has been increased to a great extent, and a spring that has hitherto been a cold one has been converted into a basin of hot water.

Similar phenomena is reported from all parts of the valley and it now looks as though Hades and the very devil himself were located right beneath us.

Disease Germs Absorbed by Wood.

A celebrated physician has remarked that every house ought to be pulled down at the end of the sixtieth year, as it has by that time absorbed all of the diseases of those that have lived in it. This idea is based on the theory that wood and plaster absorb gases, foul air and feverish exhalation as readily as milk or water does. But, as it is not practicable to tear down houses every half century or so, some eminent authorities claim that all wood used in the interior construction of houses, and all of the surfaces of plaster, should be thoroughly oiled or varnished, so that the power of absorption would be almost entirely destroyed. In the latter event the destruction of houses on sanitary grounds would no longer be desirable.—New York Telegram.

Costly Russian Sables.

The finest sables in the world are owned by the czarina of Russia and the Duchess of Edinburgh, who inherited those belonging to her mother, the mother of the czar. The favorite bridal gift of the Russian empress is one of furs, and fortunate indeed are the recipients of the splendid specimens she bestows. When the Princess Alexandra of Greece wedded the Grand Duke Paul of Russia the czarina sent three dressing gowns of fur to prevent the fragile bride experiencing ill effects from the change in climate. One robe was of sable fastened down the front with six clasps of real pearl, another of silver fox trimmed with bullion gold cords, and the third of blue fox, the rarest fur in the world, confined with a girdle of diamonds.—New York Sun.

Broadly Distinguished.

A famous Russian writer had an original way of expressing his opinions in regard to people and things.

"How do you like her voice?" he was asked, relative to a prima donna who produced an enormous quantity of husky tone when she sang.

Dr. Talmage says: "There never was a filthy street that remained asmoral street. How important an agency of reform cleanliness is was illustrated by the fact that when the ancient world got outrageously wicked it was plunged into the deluge and kept under for months till its iniquity was soaked out of it."

On last Wednesday evening a party of young ladies and gentlemen, residents of the southern part of the valley, greatly enjoyed a moonlight ride to the home of Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Hooper, where several hours of the evening were delightfully spent. The following composed the party: Misses L. Smyth, R. Harrison, D. Myers, V. Howe. Messrs. C. Ludeman, M. Harrison, B. Spencer.

On last Sunday a party of ladies and gentlemen from Sonoma visited Tubbs' Island. The trip was made in row boats secured at the drawbridge. Arriving at the Island, lunch was partaken of and a pleasant afternoon spent. The following were among the party: Misses Bertie and Gabriel Agullion, Minnie and Louisa Rufus, Mrs. Wicker, and Mrs. Weems. Messrs. Otto Rufus, Carl Ludeman, Heggie, H. Madison, H. Seipp and S. Bingstorm.

One of the prettiest weddings which ever took place in Sonoma Valley occurred at the home of Mr. and Mrs. R. B. Lyon last Sunday, October 11th, when their pretty brown-eyed daughter Grace was given in marriage to our popular bonded warehouse keeper, William E Thomas, formerly of Plymouth, Amador county. The house had been converted into a bower of flowers by loving hearts and willing hands. Promptly at 12:30 o'clock, the beautiful strains of Mendelssohn's wedding march announced the coming of the bridal party. The bride was escorted by Arch Cook of San Francisco to a beautiful bower of fern brakes, smilax and maderia vines, in which hung a marriage bell of white flowers and maiden hair ferns. Here she was met by the groom and her bridesmaid, Miss W. Akers, where they were joined in the holy bonds of matrimony by the Rev. Mr. Trudgen of Napa. After congatulations had been offered, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas led the way to the dinner table, which was spread under a grape vine arbor, where nature in her own beauty formed the main decorations, though smilax, ferns and many bright hued flowers lent their aid in making it one of the prettiest of banquet tables. At 3 o'clock the bridal party and their friends, amid showers of rice, took their departure for El Verano, where the happy couple, accompanied by the best man and bridesmaid, took the train for San Francisco. The bride was attired in a handsome suit of grey cashmere and silk, and carried a boquet of white sweet peas and maiden hair ferns. The presents were numerous and handsome. Those present were Mr. and Mrs. R. B. Lyon, Mr. and Mrs. M. P. Akers, Mr. and Mrs. W. Goodman, Mr. and Mrs. G. Hotz, Mr. and Mrs. A. F. Pauli, Mr. and Mrs. Trudgen, Mrs. E. Cassebohm. Misses O. Copeland, Lizzie Jones, Geneva Jones, Mattie Goodman, Ida Goodman, Bertie Thomas, Kate McDonell and Willie Akers. Messrs. Arch Cook of San Francisco, Chas. Dillon of Petaluma, Masters Stephen Akers, Sylvian Thomas, Ralph Hotz and Roy Pauli.

The World Enriched.

The facilities of the present day for the production of everything that will conduce to the material welfare and comfort of mankind are almost unlimited and when Syrup of Figs was first produced the world was enriched with the only perfect laxative known, as it is the only remedy which is truly pleasing and refreshing to the taste and prompt and effectual to cleanse the system gently in the Spring time or, in fact, at any time and the better it is known the more popular it becomes.

SONOMA INDEX - TRIBUNE.

SATURDAY, OCTOBER 17, 1891.

Plain Words About Dog Worship.

Opinions differ about babies. There are many men who do not care for them, who positively dislike them, except they be their own. Fatherhood is capable of working miracles, and generally fulfills its capacity. But are there any sensible, well balanced men who can enjoy the spectacle of a woman bestowing caresses on a cur? Think of her pressing it to her breast, leaning her cheek against it, allowing it to lick her face, to touch her very lips! And how much worse to see it, as one often may in the streets, or in private houses! Bah! Whose gorge, if healthy, does not rise at it? He would be bold or hardened who should be willing to succeed a poodle in a woman's affections and hold a second place there, as he probably would.

Is there any more effectual way for a woman to disenchant herself, to turn the poetry of her graceful being into harsh and hateful prose? And yet so infatuated is the cynolatist that she really believes she stirs the admiration and inflames the breasts of men by observing her irrational rites. Even if they should or could envy the object worshiped, they would despise the worshiper. They may dread and detest rivals, but the knowledge that their rival is a beast would cure the maddest love ever kindled. If Venus herself should fall to fondling a small dog she would cease from that moment to be the Goddess of Love and Beauty. She would instantly and forever be deposed from Olympus.—St Louis Globe-Democrat.

Women and Pockets.

"Why do not women wear pockets? And why do they always carry everything in their purse, and their purse in their hand in such a manner as to tempt the dishonest?" What an unworthy taunt is this! Woman does not wear pockets because man has left her nothing to put in them, and that is one reason. Another reason is because she does not want them. She is not as man is, and is not obliged to carry about with her everywhere a cigar case, a box of matches, a pocketbook, a latch key, and a dozen other futilities. As for carrying her purse in her hand, she carries it there because she has not got a pocket.

Also, it is more convenient to carry it there; she is of a generous and liberal nature, and would always be giving, so that she likes to have her purse ready. It is a much safer method, too; her pocket might be picked of her purse, whereas in her hand she can keep her eye upon it. And if anybody does snatch her purse, it would not matter much, for it rarely contains anything but visiting cards and a few postage stamps. Women do wear pockets. They have pockets in every one of their dresses. (We really believe that this is true, and that they have pockets, only they don't use them because they can never find them.) —Spectator.

A New Use for Gimp.

Some genius of a woman who has struggled for seasons to keep her skirt and her waist under her belt has thought of a way to make these two bands join each other in picturesque harmony. No more will one see that unhappy lapse which so often has marred the symmetry of woman's toilet when she endeavored to keep the band of her skirt and the band of her waist under the belt which was supposed to conceal the point of juncture.

The new device is a simple one, and it is done by the means of that universal beautifier and magic ornamenter —gimp. A nice broad piece of gimp, preferably silver, but allowably black or any other color which harmonizes with the costume, is sewed upon the band of the dress skirt. This band is then hooked over the waistband and is grappled in place by means of jewel headed pins, which are placed both for ornament and for use at intervals of two inches around skirt.

Thus the unities are preserved, a pretty effect is accomplished and every one pleased. And all with the aid of gimp.—New York World.

As He Used to Do.

One of our street car conductors was formerly a Methodist minister. How he came to be running a street car I never knew, but he did his work well, though he had some peculiar ways.

He had been on the front platform one day collecting fares, and when he came back to the rear platform a passenger told him that a man got on at Houston street and was sitting inside.

The conductor stood in the doorway and looked in, but he could not be sure of his man. Then he said with all calmness, "Will the gentleman who got on at Houston street please rise?"

Fifty-one Trout in One Pike.

I put in the Mill Head waters, writes Mr. Garrett from Hertford, 500 trout at 11:30. About half an hour afterward I went to see how they were getting on, and observed a small pike among them. I went and fetched a rod and line, but he darted into the weeds. This I repeated several times till 6 o'clock, when I succeeded in capturing him. On opening him to see what mischief he had committed I counted no less than fifty-one young trout.—Pall Mall Budget.

Highly Poetical.

Young Doctor (on his wedding tour) —Wifey, dear, just look at that peculiar blending of colors in the sky. The cloud overhanging yonder peak is exactly the color of a diseased liver.—Figaro in Wien.

One of the best bargains ever offered in the way of securing an improved farm in Sonoma Valley is advertised in these columns to-day. The property is situated one mile south of town and consists of fifty-five acres of highly improved farming land. Nine acres of vineyard and twelve acres of orchard. Both in full bearing. On the farm is a living spring of water, a good dwelling, barn and outhouses and every convenience of a model farm. Title perfect. This farm is offered for the low sum of $6,500. Ask any farmer in this valley if the property is worth the above sum and you will be answered that the property is cheap at that figure. For further particulars apply at this office.

Consumption Cured.

An old physician, retired from practice, having had placed in his hands by an East Inda missionary the formula of a simple vegetable remedy for the speedy and permanent cure of Consumption, Bronchitis, Asthma and all throat and Lung affections, also a positive and radical cure for Nervous Debility and all Nervous Complaints, after having tested its wonderful curative powers in thousands of cases. "German Syrup"

Asthma.

"I have been a great sufferer from Asthma and severe Colds every Winter, and last Fall my friends as well as myself thought because of my feeble condition, and great distress from constant coughing, and inability to raise any of the accumulated matter from my lungs, that my time was close at hand. When nearly worn out for want of sleep and rest, a friend recommended me to try thy valuable medicine, Boschee's German Syrup, I am confident it saved my life. Almost the first dose gave me great relief and a gentle refreshing sleep, such as I had not had for weeks. My cough began immediately to loosen and pass away, and I found myself rapidly gaining in health and weight. I am pleased to inform thee—unsolicited—that I am in excellent health and do certainly attribute it to thy Boschee's German Syrup. C. B. STICKNEY, Picton, Ontario."

THE COWBOY KNOWS!

Trying to hold a drove of cattle together in a drenching rain means an amount of exposure which few can withstand without serious results. If sickness does not follow, it will be found that such hardship usually brings on rheumatism and similar complaints. At such times a "Fish Brand Slicker" is worth its weight in gold, and is invaluable to any one exposed to stormy weather. For all saddle uses, you want a Pomme' Slicker, which keeps the entire saddle, pommel, and cantle dry, and completely envelopes the rider from head to foot. It can't get wet, whatever the weather. And, besides keeping him dry, it keeps him warm. Every range rider has one. Why shouldn't you? Beware of worthless imitations; every garment stamped with "Fish Brand" Trade Mark. THE Bravest 500 OF '61,

A Wonderful Book made from the records of the War Department.

COMPILED BY
BVT. BRIG.-GEN.
T. F. Rodenbough.

Of the 2,778,304 men enlisted in the Union Army and Navy, 1861-5, a little less than 500 were especially recognized by the War Dept., as coming under the Act of Congress, July 12, 1862, for distinguished bravery, which gave them the United States Medal of Honor.

Many of the stories, told by the heroes themselves, of how they won the high distinction, are extremely interesting. That the records of these deeds are almost unknown to their countrymen, but lie buried in the pigeon holes of the War Dept., and in the recesses of their own breasts, seems astonishing.

This book must find a wide sale, for it is full of incidents that will interest every old soldier in the land, and our boys will glory in it. It is an 8vo volume of over 500 pages, with nearly 100 excellent illustrations, made specially for the work.

It reeks of its time and deserves a place in the library of all who would not altogether forget the glorious past.
